

TEARAA

T·J, a 23-year-old youth from an ordinary family on Terra, had always been fascinated by the idea of interstellar exploration.

Inside, he found a puzzle ring and a box of vintage film negatives. One of the film negatives was marked with the phrase, "The key is the spirit."

One day, while tidying up the warehouse, he stumbled upon an old, worn-out treasure box left behind by his late grandfather.

Driven by curiosity, T·J picked up a flashlight and shone it on the negatives. To his astonishment, the contents of the film projected onto the wall, revealing a map that pointed the way to the mysterious Seeker's Gate. The discovery not only reignited T·J's long-held thirst for adventure but also sparked a deep curiosity about his grandfather's mysterious past.

With a sense of longing and curiosity, T·J secretly began his preparations. He spent nearly two months carefully planning his journey's food, clothing, shelter, and travel needs. He studied various possible routes to ensure everything would go smoothly.

PLANET

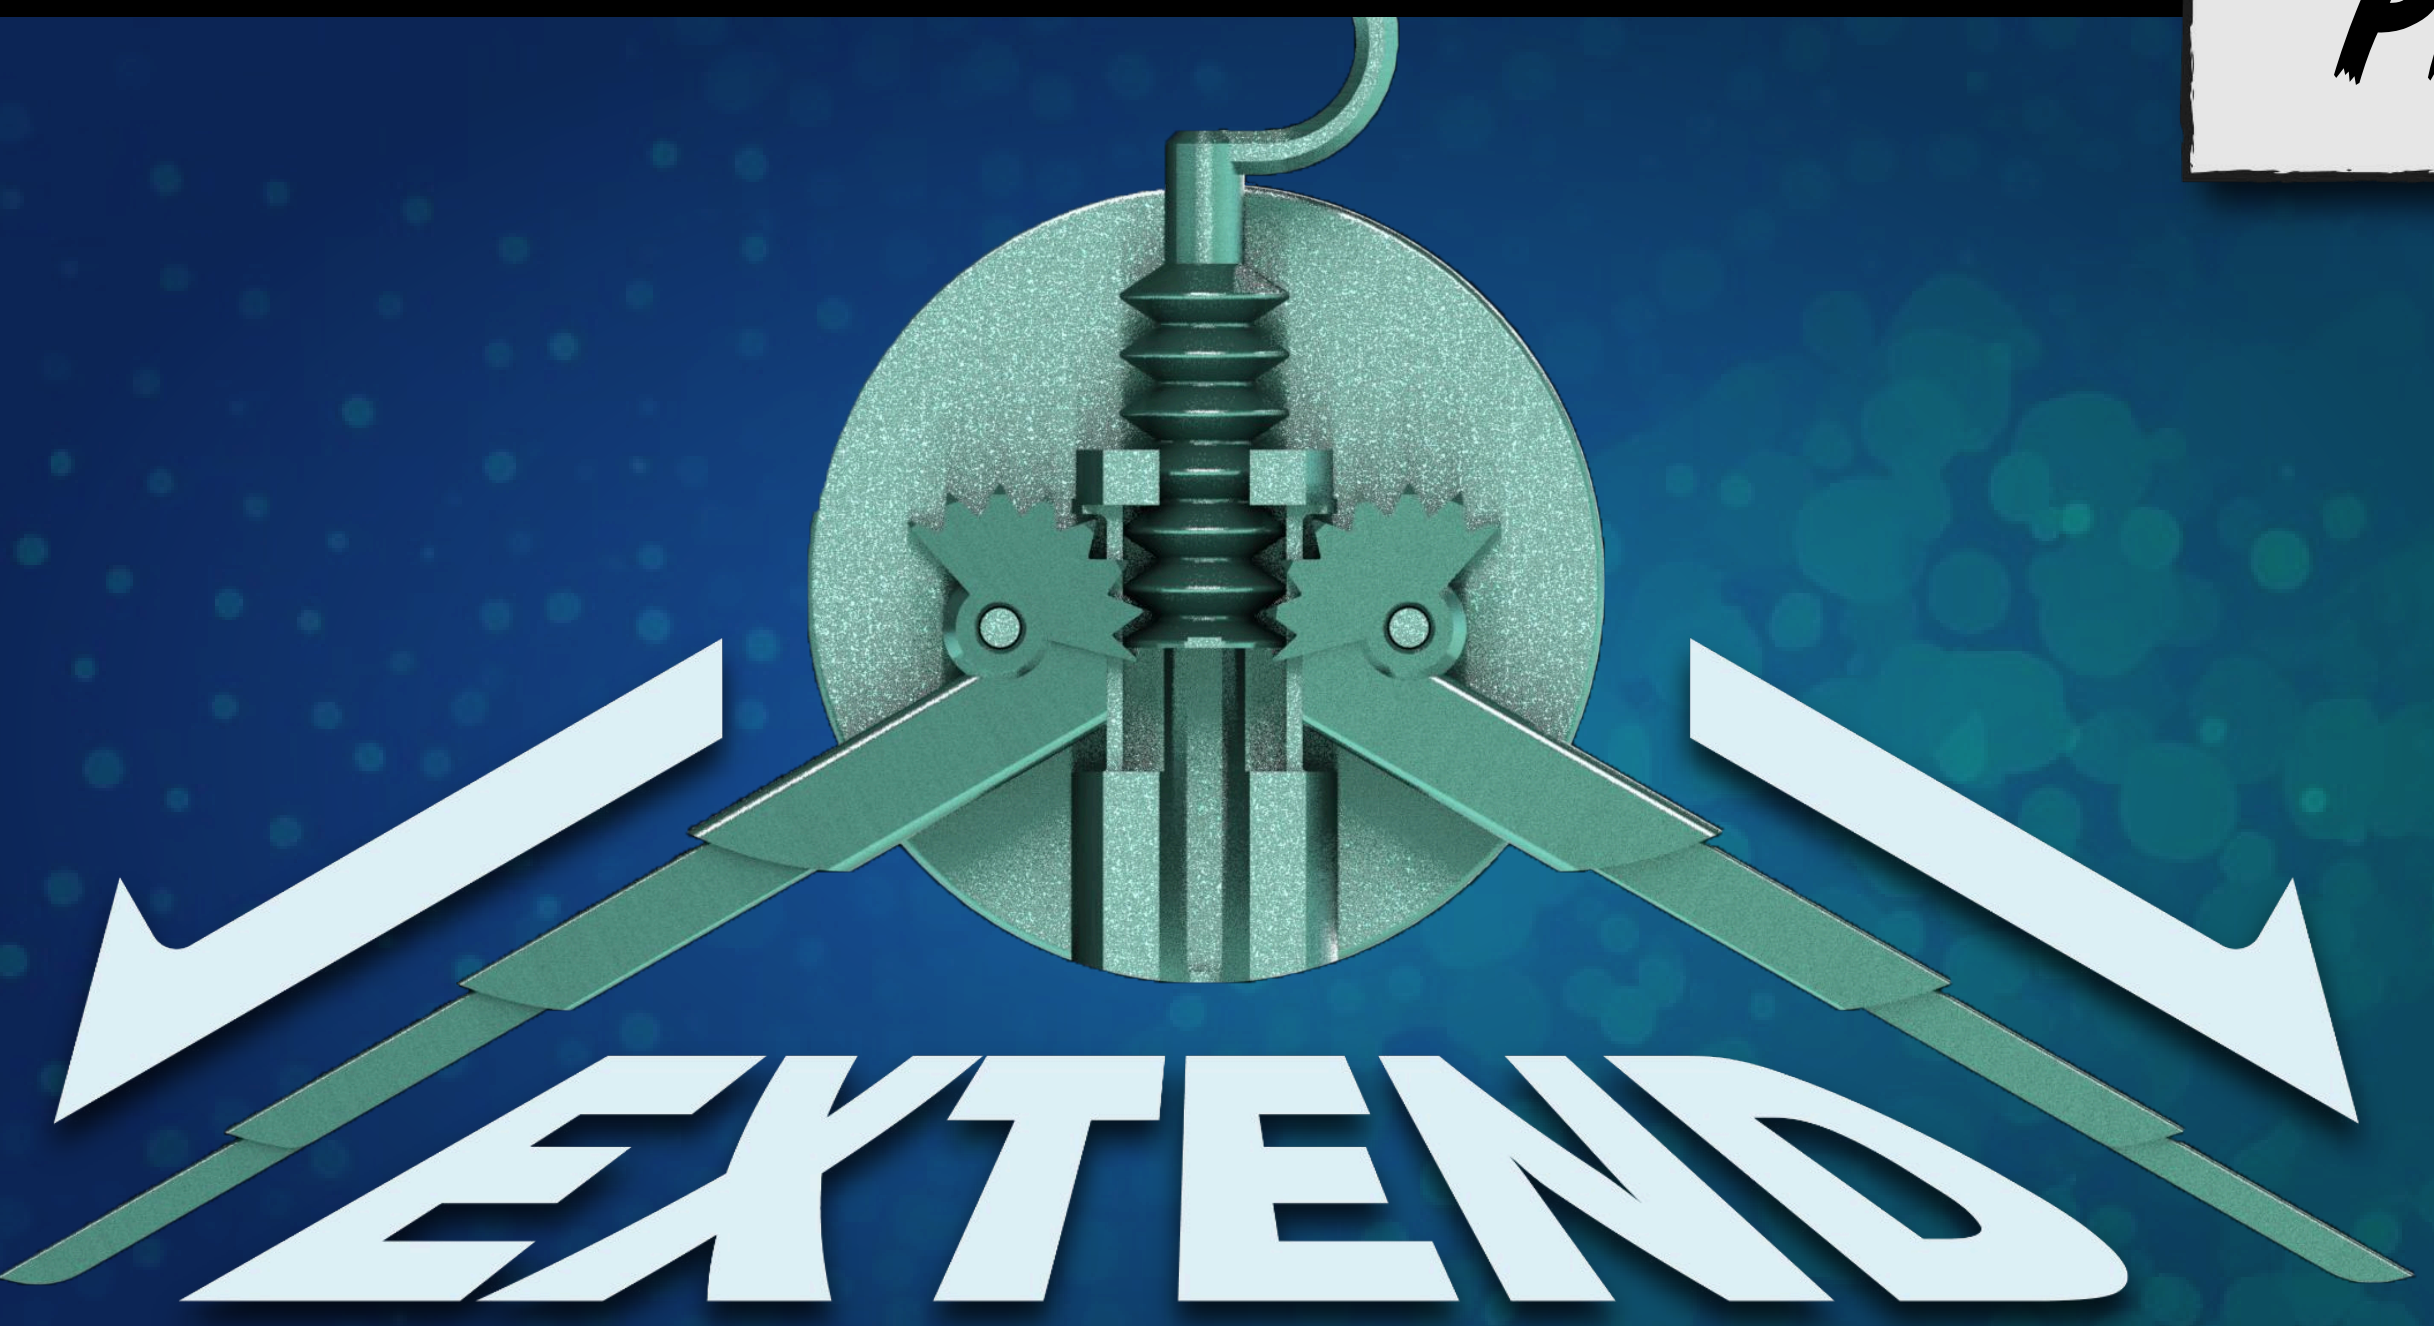

T.J.'s mother felt a mix of pride and worry as he embarked on his first solo journey. Despite her concerns, she encouraged him to follow his dreams. Before he left, she gifted him TravelRound, collapsible round hangers symbolizing “A rolling stone gathers no moss,” showing her support for his adventurous spirit.
