

EHEAES

Urban Ring: A shared space where all races coexist, featuring blocky architecture symbolizing harmony.

T-J arrived at the final coordinates on the map—Seeker's Gate. But from the looks of it, not only did it look completely different from the map, but even the name was slightly off, showing as EKERES. Despite the confusion, T-J decided to stop here to rest and resupply.

Rainforest Ring: A humid jungle teeming with dense vegetation and exotic creatures, home to tree spirits and amphibious beings.

Polar Ring: A frigid land covered in thick ice and snow, where ice elves and yetis live.

Desert Ring: A scorching expanse of golden dunes and ancient ruins, inhabited by heat-resistant lizardfolk and nomads.

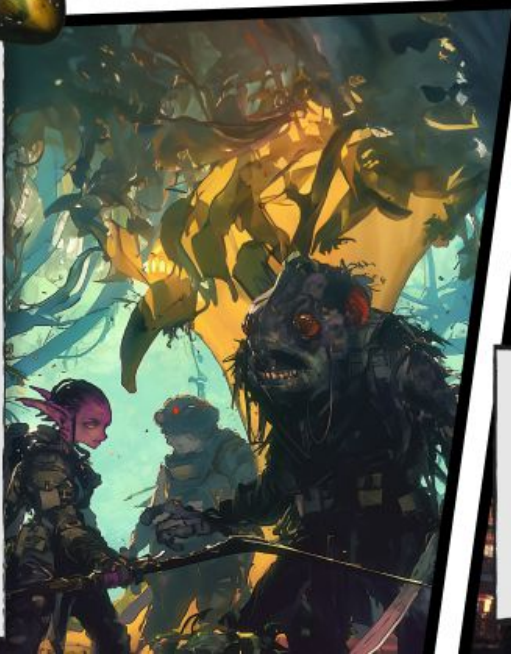

One day, space pirates launched a sudden attack on EKERES, bombarding it with massive warships. The residents quickly formed a defense team, using all available resources to fight back. However, the pirates' powerful shields and firepower rendered their efforts futile. Each counterattack failed, and hope began to fade amidst the destruction.

T·J, a neutral outsider, took the lead to unite EKERES inhabitants against space pirates, forming a powerful alliance.

- In the desert ring, lizardfolk and nomads used desert storms and ruins for agile defenses.
- In the rainforest ring, tree elves and amphibians launched ambushes using guerrilla tactics.
- In the polar ring, ice elves and yetis created traps and defenses of the land with ice magic.
- In the urban ring, robots and brilliant aliens enhanced technology, turning EKERES into a fortress.

Under T·J's leadership, the united residents caught the pirates off guard and drove them away. The victory highlighted the strength of cooperation, inspiring them to rebuild together.

After the battle, T-J was praised by the residents and received a chair named "GATHER". This chair, which can be disassembled and reassembled, symbolizes the collective memory of EKERES's united fight. It was later transformed into the "badge representing the spirit of cooperation". Because of this, T-J was regarded as a hero by the residents of EKERES.

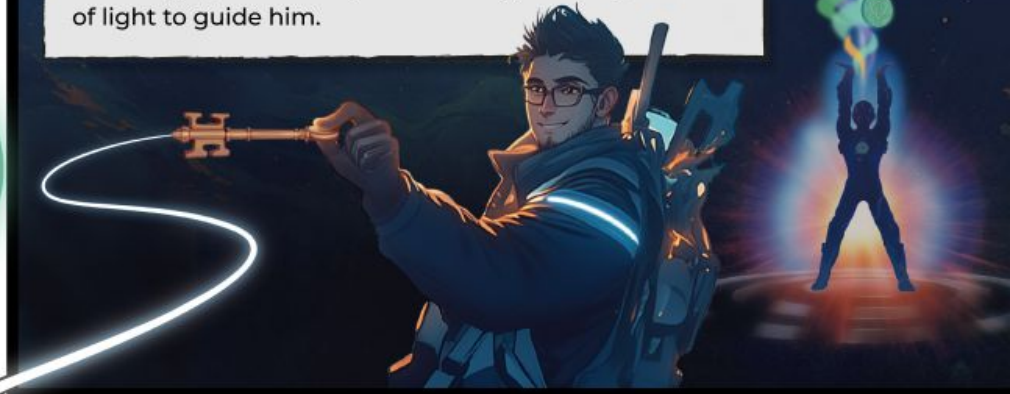

GATHER

GATHER

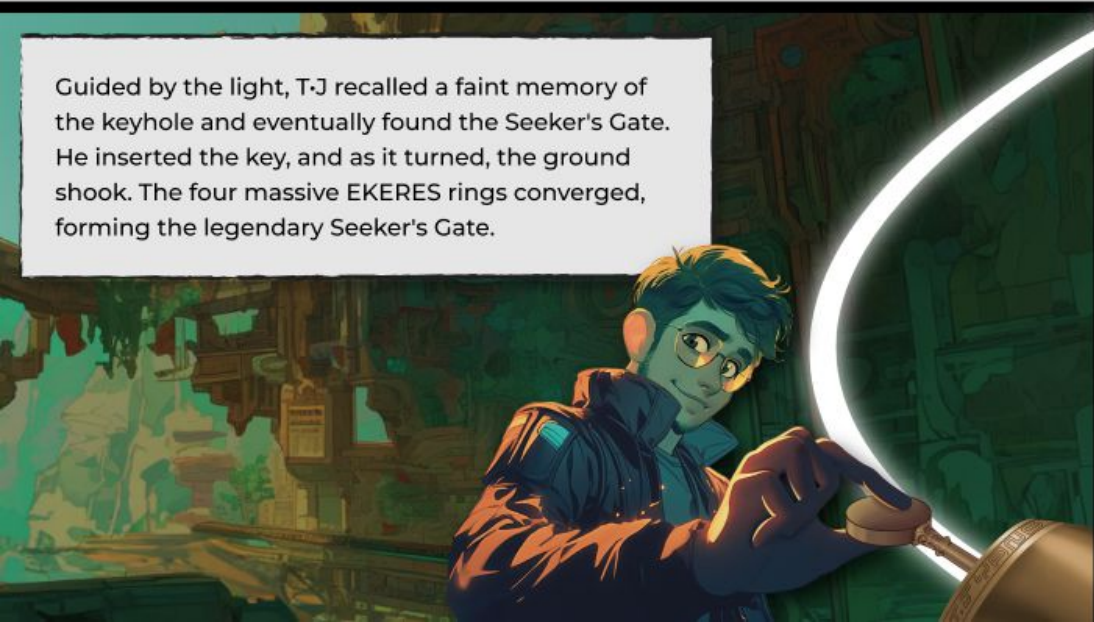

T-J arrived at EKERES, the map's final destination, but the Seeker's Gate was nowhere in sight. Confused and disappointed, he toyed with his grandfather's puzzle ring and noticed its resemblance to the four celestial rings. Intrigued, he assembled the ring, pondering its connection to his spiritual badges and the Seeker's Gate.

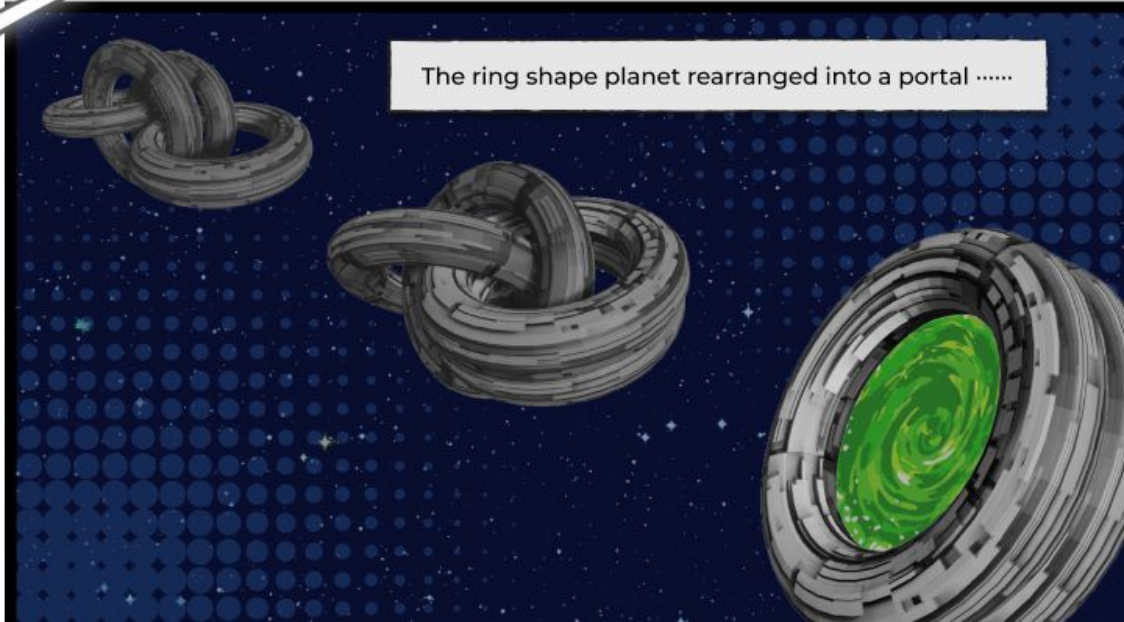

After all the adventure, the cloth hanger given by T-J's mother is transformed into the "spiritual badge that symbolizes his original intentions and breakthroughs". Realizing its importance, he instinctively gathered all five badges, which merged into a key, emitting a beam of light to guide him.

Guided by the light, T-J recalled a faint memory of the keyhole and eventually found the Seeker's Gate. He inserted the key, and as it turned, the ground shook. The four massive EKERES rings converged, forming the legendary Seeker's Gate.

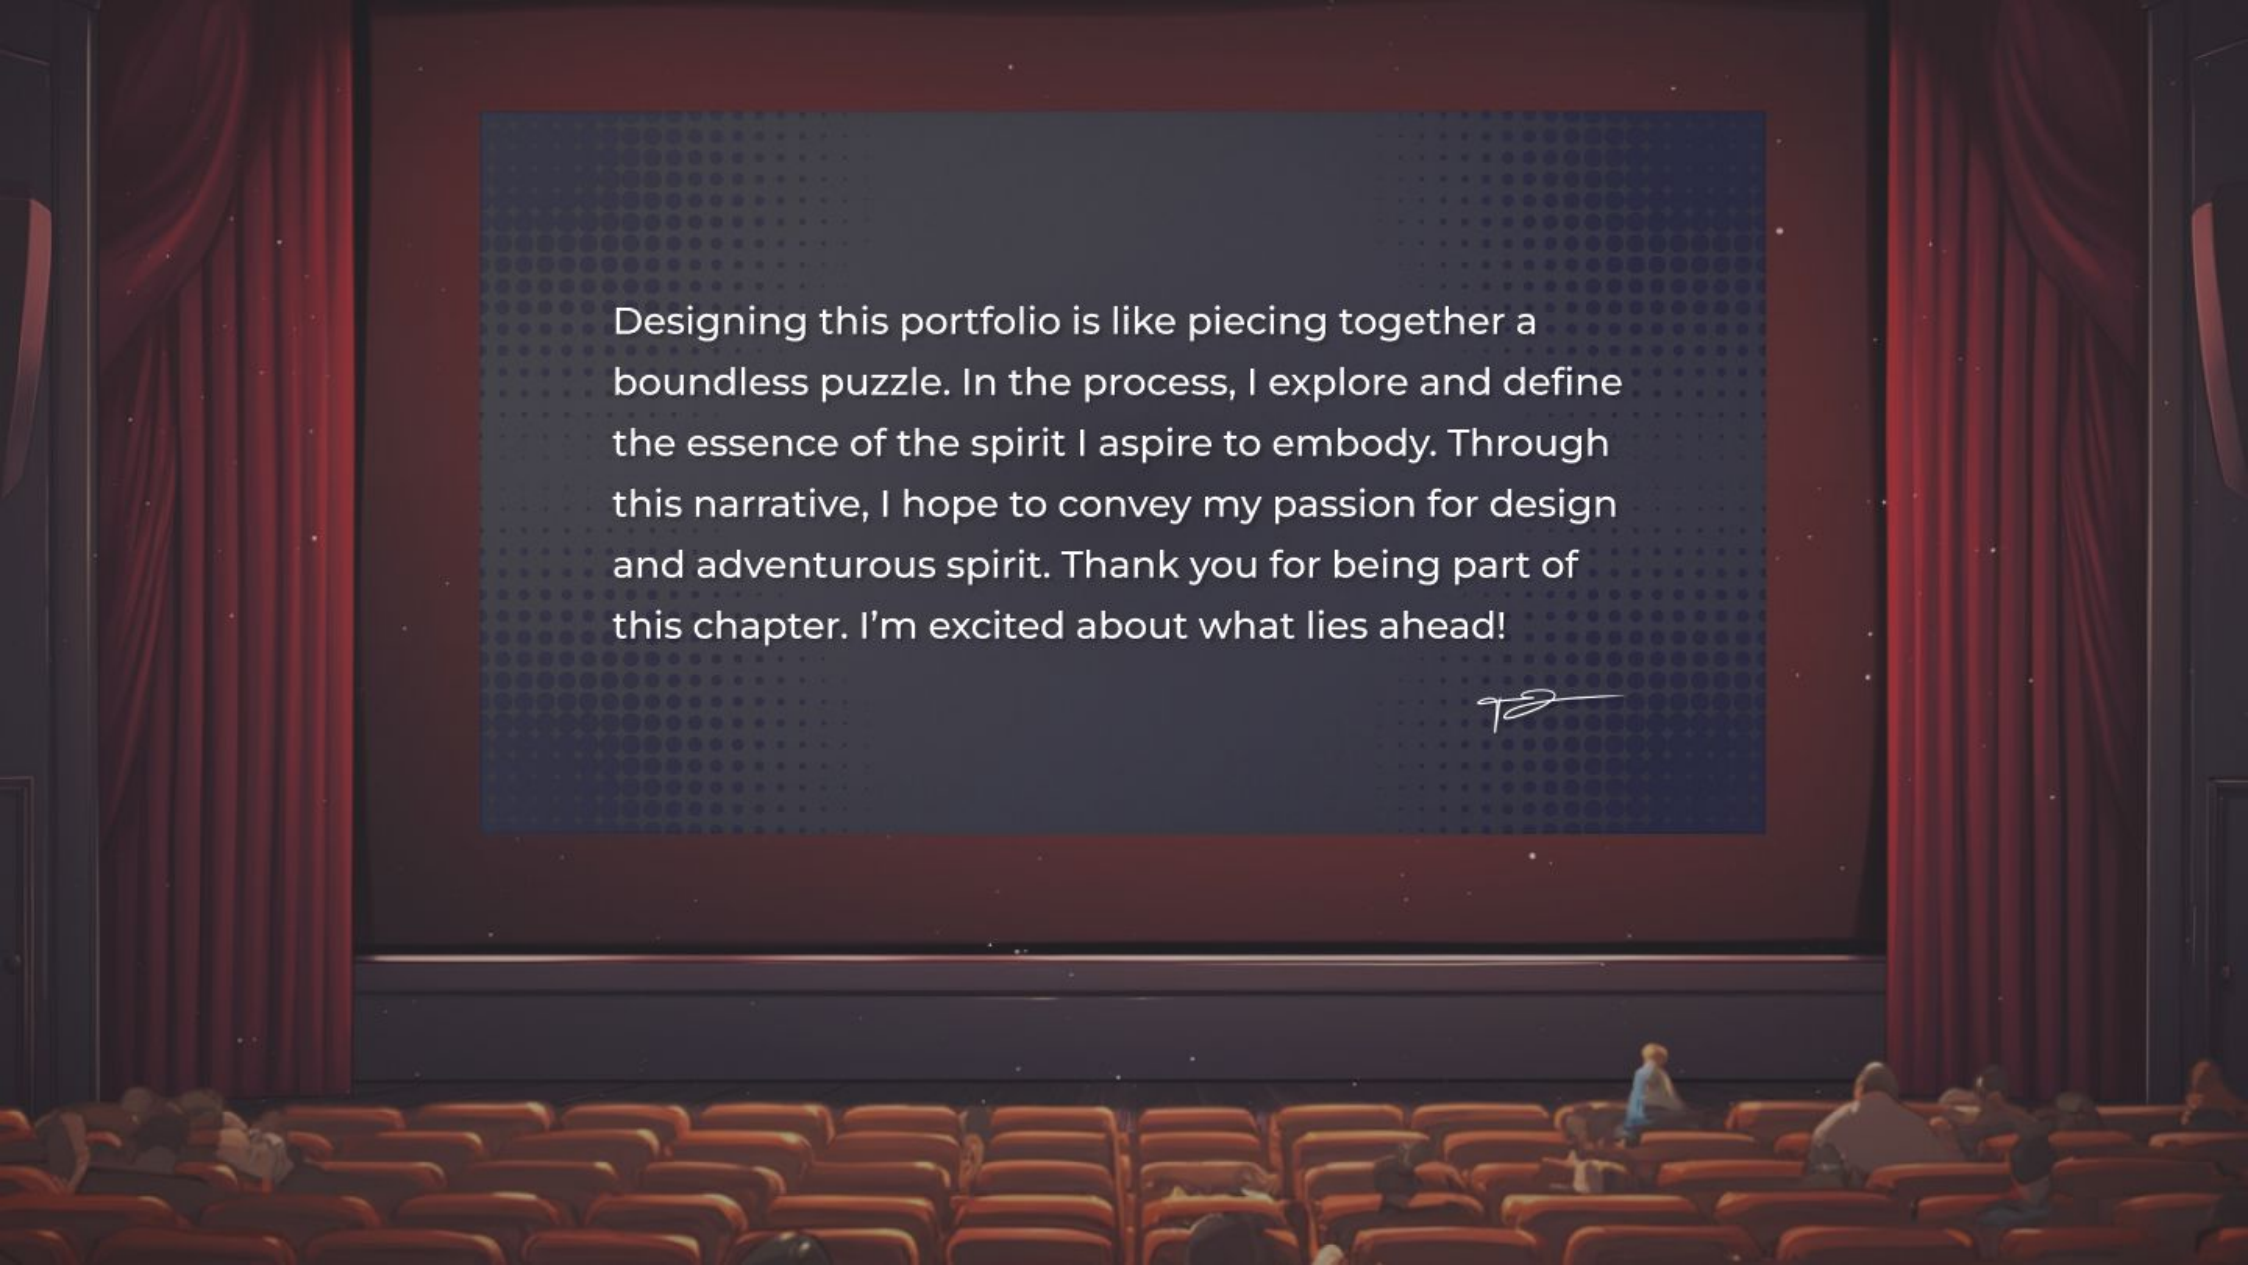

The ring shape planet rearranged into a portal

Through the portal lies a sacred temple radiating holiness. At its heart stands the Guardian of the Seeker's Gate, challenging adventurers about their aspirations to determine if they are worthy to pass through. In time, T-J will confront him, carrying the lessons and memories of their journey.

To Be Continued

The image depicts a theater interior from the audience's perspective. In the foreground, rows of orange theater seats are visible, with a few audience members seated. The background features a large screen flanked by heavy red curtains. The screen displays a dark blue rectangular area with a white dot grid pattern. Centered on this grid is a paragraph of white text. To the right of the text, there is a white handwritten signature.

Designing this portfolio is like piecing together a boundless puzzle. In the process, I explore and define the essence of the spirit I aspire to embody. Through this narrative, I hope to convey my passion for design and adventurous spirit. Thank you for being part of this chapter. I'm excited about what lies ahead!

JD